Cornelius Castoriadis (1922-1997)

Philosopher, economist, psychoanalyst, critical marxist

Major thinker of autonomy in the XXth century – Built on the notion of « radical imaginary »

“Imaginary or imagination [is] the capacity to posit something which is not there »

« [T]he radical imagination : phantasia subjected to no given end but the creation of its ends, that the living body is the human living body in so far as it represents and represents itself, that it puts things and itself into 'images' far beyond what would be required or implied by its 'nature' as a living being. [...]»

Distinguish [...] the ultimate or radical imaginary, that is the capacity to make arise as an image something which does not exist and has never existed, and the products of this imaginary, which could be designated as the imagined [...]»

The subject can begin to sketch out the elements of the real, the object and the human other, only starting with and under the exclusive control of its own imaginary schemata. Scarcely has he grasped a bit of 'reality' when he must metamorphosize it to make it agree with the irreality which alone has meaning for him. [...]»

Only the institution of society, proceeding from the social imaginary, can limit the radical imagination of the psyche and bring into being for it a reality by bringing into being a society. Only the institution of society can bring the psyche out of its originary monadic madness, and what could well exist and, at times, actually does as a madness of two, three, or more. [...]»

Cornelius Castoriadis (1922-1997)

« [The project of individual and collective autonomy is] the project of a society in which all citizens have an equal, effectively actual possibility of participating in legislation, in government, in jurisdiction, and, finally, in the institution of society. This state of affairs presupposes radical changes in present-day institutions.”

“Autonomy is an ongoing process, whereby you always have contents that are given, borrowed—you are in the world, you are in society, you have inherited a language, you live in a certain history.”

“Autonomy does not mean i am totally separated from everything external. And, in relation to my own contents, which are 99 percent borrowed, have come from the outside, I have a reflective, critical, deliberative activity, and I can to a significant degree say yes and no. I can also allow my own radical imagination, my flux of representations and ideas — we are talking about thinking now—to well up, and there to choose again, because my radical imagination may produce nonsense, or absurdities, or things that do not work. It is this ongoing process that I call an autonomous subjectivity.”

Imagination, art, co-creation, intervention, autonomy...
your hiking co-lab

→ Can we help co-creating a radical empowering and transformative imaginary (Castoriadis) about and for socio-environmental systems, using art, participatory modeling and other “alternative” pathways ?

??? What does a reflection on / through art & creation bring here to the methodological and ethical challenges of "helping" with methods and tools, in front of the paradoxes of a research-intervention aiming at emancipation???

Your philosophical TARathon !

The TARAthon rules

- Aim : walk around CIFOR from spot to spot, where you access ideas and can create responses, reactions, chefs d'oeuvre, shared by dialogue with others
 1. Take 1 pen, timer (clock, phone...), maybe a rigid support. Launch chronometer at the “GO”.
 2. Walk to the first / next spot given to you.
 3. Read the paper there (citations). Read also the comments already on the back (if any). Ruminante (alone).
 4. Write on the paper(s) back your personal comment.
 5. Discuss with the others here. Add other comments, citations, drawing.

!!! Please relate your add-ons to the common challenges of the TARA group !!!

1. Choose one next spot among the 2 ones proposed here (where you haven't been yet) – split with your current partner : choose different ways !
2. ALWAYS move to the next spot before 10 mins for this one.
3. After all spots (=50 mins), come back to the room.

<Imaginaire comme> création incessante et essentiellement indéterminée (socialhistorique et psychique) de figures / formes / images à partir desquelles seulement il peut être question de quelque chose L'imaginaire n'est pas un simple reflet du réel. [...] Ce que nous appelons réalité et rationalité en sont des œuvres.

L'être-sujet pensé comme pour-soi réflexif presuppose la présence d'une imagination radicale, qui voie ce que le pour-soi ne peut jamais vraiment voir.
<Il> constitue <...> la forme ultime du pour-soi où se trouve libéré l'imaginaire comme puissance de création explicite, aussi bien dans le domaine de l'art que dans celui de la politique.

<Imaginary as> incessant and essentially indeterminate (sociohistorical and psychological) creation of figures / forms / images from which only something can be derived (C Castoriadis)

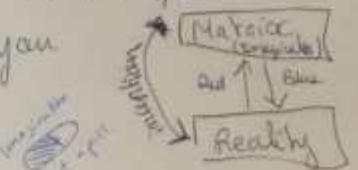

The imaginary is not a simple reflection of reality. [...] What we call reality and rationality are the works of it. (C Castoriadis)

The subject-being thought of as a reflexive for-oneself presupposes the presence of a radical imagination, which sees what the for-oneself can never really see. <It> constitutes <...> the ultimate form of the for-itself where the imaginary is liberated as an explicit creative power, both in the field of art and in that of politics.
(N. Poirier)

BOF

- Complexity inhibits imagination?
- Reality? (ies) Realities?
- "Le chien aboie dans le vent" : "The dog barks in the belly"
- These words kill my imagination (indeed!).

I reject all these propositions as hegemonic shit from old male head, dead boring, white western experts. It says nothing to me about other forms of thinking and being in which imagination is qualitatively an expression of sense making about the world.
- Welcome to the matrix: red pill or blue pill
- "If you're going to perform inception, you need imagination"

Politics rely on imagination.

Is Reality the result of meaning injected in our perception? The meaning we inject in our perception relies on our imagery?

The imaginary - being reflexive - means having internal conversations about second person. It can also be about individuals & communities to see what not only in the present but in future terms, building cross- and intergenerational alliances.

Imagining needs being free from WORDS

The imagery is stimulated in selfish where it can free itself from context and other. The imagery can also care for others and relate other during individual or collective imaginations?

<Par l'instinct de jeu> prend naissance dans J'âme humaine un état d'indétermination qui est possibilité d'être libre, c'est-à-dire pouvoir pour la pensée et la volonté de se manifester dans leur autonomie	<By the instinct of play> is born in human soul a state of indeterminacy that is the possibility of being free, that is, the power for thought and the willingness to manifest themselves in their autonomy (F.v. Schiller)
L'homme ne joue que lorsqu'il est pleinement homme et il n'est tout à fait homme que lorsqu'il joue	Man only plays when he is fully human and he is completely human only when he plays (F.v.Schiller cité par C. Bolduc)
Il pensait dans d'autres têtes et dans sa tête à lui d'autres pensaient aussi	He thought in other heads and in his own head others thought too (B. Brecht)

Play to distance oneself from reality, but play to make reality but not only human play!

Paradox: Play as step out reality, remove constraints but play is also constraint by the rules

Play is optional.

Quien des jeu super au mal? règles, contraintes contexte groupe liberty

Dans quelle mesure est possible de vraiment penser à d'autres sans expérimenter soi soi-même?

Play is learning, learning is (or should be) play

- We are multiple in our selves and our identities
- Empathy is fundamental to being life is a game able to realize transformation.
- Are we really free? how my concept of freedom affect other people's sense of freedom?
c [Freedom vs anarchy]? Learn Imagine
Play

learning through play opens your mind

Brecht — We all have a sense of responsibility to one another Nonmatter our differences, we agree on certain things.

Seeing the world through others' eyes,
Seeing others' eyes throughout the world

When we play is it possible to disconnect with ourselves?

- Play to distance oneself from reality, but play to master reality, but not only humans play
- Paradox : play a step out reality, remove constraints but play is also constrained by the rules
- Play is ephemeral
- Power / liberty of game by / beside rules, constraints, context, group

Egalité des intelligences et des capacités	Equality of intelligence and capabilities (J. Rancière)
Changeons de forme politique : comodélisons notre monde, nos liens, nos voies, nos lois, pour faire advenir ensemble un imaginaire inenvisageable	Let's change our political pattern : let us co-model our world, our links, our ways, our laws, to let emerge together an unthinkable imaginary (N. Ferrand)
La politique « profane » <comme> art des conjonctures propices et de la décision	"Lay politics" <as> the art of favorable conjunctures and of decision making (O. Neveux)
Ce n'est pas l'idée qui fait l'individu mais sa pratique.<...> au théâtre, sa pratique de spectateur	It is not the idea that makes the individual but his practice...<...> in the theatre, his practice as a spectator (O. Neveux)

- 1) In the hands of the about:
 - equality is also political change - this is groundbreaking - X imagine the equality + equity of all individuals to build (and out) new ways ideas and knowledge - for big
 - "big plots" can be country productive what are constraints / barriers / to guide toward desired outcomes
- How do we know whether the emergence of new political patterns are sustainable / imagined what makes one world unique?
- The "us"
 is a Romantization
 of non-romantic realities?
 How does this avoid the tendencies to violence + grab of power?
- What is the consequence to build our "us"?
 'The us' is the multiplication of 'I's'
2. Yes we can believe in equality of intelligence but that's more that, in a social use, I think it was my society constructed - social memory for nothing could have ever adaptive value that's more we regarded as less intelligent and less intelligent here is a sign of separating 3. Controlling our world should also consider our postcolonialities. But in present day we from contributing agent or being imagined on equal basis. How do we deal with such differences?

Is access to politics really to all? To what extent is politicization emancipation? Politics are lot of citizens beyond individuals.

How to choose the good place & time for these meetings to be equal? (neutral!?)

Why do we have to think about politics as something special?
 It is everywhere all the time. Even going to the toilet is a political act. Get over it!

us as a "Romantization" of me/I/myself if its not constructed

What implies the true construction of an us? What imagination? what process? Internalizing the us?
 ① Equality or Equity? Equality affinities may not be desirable / but equity yes - capacities

Une des spécificités de l'être de l'art est qu'en lui il y a toujours la préservation de « quelque chose » - d'un modèle, du sens et de la signification, de la forme, etc. - et ce, même dans le cas où la génialité d'une œuvre donne l'impression que cette dernière est en rupture totale avec les formes passées	One of the specificities of the being of art is that in it there is always the preservation of "something" - of a model, of sense and meaning, form, etc. - in it. - and this, even in the case where the genius of a work gives the impression that it is in total rupture with past forms (D. Plante)
Dévoilement du chaos parce que le grand art déchire les évidences quotidiennes, le « tenir ensemble » de ces évidences, et le cours normal de la vie	Unveiling chaos because great art tears up the daily evidence, the "holding it together" of that evidence, and the normal course of life (C. Castoriadis)
L'artiste s'adresse <...> à des esprits préparés et il choisit ce qui lui promet d'avoir effet. Ce faisant il se tient lui aussi dans les mêmes traditions que le public qu'il vise et réunit (H.-G. Gadamer)	The artist addresses himself <....> to prepared minds and chooses what promises to have an effect. In doing so, it also stands in the same traditions as the public it targets and brings together.

The role of young people, not as performers in communicating climate change risks but also initiating communities to adapt

~~is it the~~ fast-paced dance: interplay between places/people/which are "common" and very new elements (knowledge, persons, -~~etc~~ of ~~etc~~ the discussion) --?

~~Art brings together the cognitive and the creative, set them in tension and allows them to resolve as you see fit.~~

The first one is beautiful but sad, because it suggests an insurmountable limitation of oneself, but also the finitude nature of one life...
GREAT ART.

Art as a way to composed new from what exist through imagination Art as a mean of expression for how we do it / can't / do not want to interpret it institution and dictate?

Art is in the eyes of the artist but also of the spectators who receive it interpretations -> possible different interpretation as many feelings

③ Such a ~~difficult~~ marvelous vision of art! The greatest artist of all time is Nature - But is there anything made by purpose? I am not sure - We as artist interpret Nature's beauties aesthetic as another piece of art.

[INCREMENTAL ART -
 ENHANCE RELATIONSHIPS] vs. [TRANSFORMATIVE ART - SCENE CHANGERS]

Demandez toujours: où allons-nous ? Avec qui? Que ferons-nous? Chacun a un devoir de responsabilité, si jeune soit-il.	Always ask : where are we going, with whom; what will we do ? Everyone has a duty of responsibility, no matter how young. (Y Lundy / Matt)
Une façon d'ouvrir les yeux sur une beauté ignorée est de se demander : "Et si je n'avais jamais vu cela auparavant ? Et si je savais que je ne le reverrais jamais ?"	One way to open your eyes to unnoticed beauty is to ask yourself, "What if I had never seen this before? What if I knew I would never see it again?" (R Carson / Bruno)
Quand on change son regard sur les choses, ces choses changent.	When you change the way you look at things, the things you look at change (W Dyer / Lorrae)
Fleurs sauvages, chacune d'elle, un autre moi	Wild flowers, each one of them, a different me (Houria)
Poulet / Collaboration / Amis / chocolat / systèmes alimentaires / les gens / volcans / Hati hati / Beno / Avenir	Chicken / Collaboration / Friends / chocolate / food systems / people / volcanoes / Hati hati / Beno / Future (Claudia)
Vous ne pouvez dépendre de votre jugement quand votre imagination est hors de propos	You can't depend on your judgment when your imagination is out of focus (M Twain / Bronwyn)

Can beauty be unnoticed?

(Yes, most of it because we see only the beauty we know) "Sobstalgia" is a so beautiful and poetic word - does it help? would.

My beauty was asleep until it met yours
now they dream together Being aware of others people contexts, and ~~we~~ we rethink our own visions or adaptation

The world is complex, disasters are uncertain, so sometimes you do not get the chance to ask where am I going. You just go because it's a matter of life and death. Pausing to ask may radically move your demise. So maybe you go, and then ask later how did inform your decision to stay here or go back.

Life is made of fortuitous encounters and unexpected events and those are what define our pathways in the end, no matter whether / how we may carefully plan.

When you change the way you look at things the things you look at change, and therefore we should not waste time trying to define everything but instead search for elements of common meaning.

①: You can never be sure of where you are going. You can try to go somewhere, but with transformation you need to see the will to decide of something else. This is particularly true for adaptation: if you are not sure of the conditions, how could you say it needs to rock that? Just try something and see how it's going, another option.

Is the purpose of life is asking questions about everything like a child?

If we choose to construct our worlds we must be asking "for whom"; "for what" what is my responsibility for others...
